When the sun rose, the dew was gone, and the mist was resolved. I felt a sense of emptiness, a profound sorrow. The world was nowhere. I wandered, lost in my thoughts, until I heard a voice calling me. It was my friend, John, who had been searching for me. Together, we decided to go on a journey.

John: "What's our destination, my friend?"
Me: "I don't know. But I feel we should do something."
