After Your Marriage,

The groom, with his friends, enters, carrying a long, ceremonial sword. The bride and groom then step forward, each holding a small, ornate box. The guests raise a cheer as the couple exchanges vows.

Then, the bride and groom are announce as man and wife. As the priest pronounces them husband and wife, the guests erupt in cheers and applause.

The newlyweds then kiss, symbolizing their commitment to each other. The guests shower them with flowers and confetti, celebrating their union.

The reception begins, with a banquet of delectable dishes and champagne. The couple dances the night away, surrounded by the joy and love of their friends and family.
