I am grateful to an unknown colleague for sharing this letter.

Dear [Name],

Thank you for your helpful comments on my manuscript. I have incorporated several changes to address your concerns. The revisions include:

1. Clarifying the methodology section
2. Adding more references
3. Reducing the number of tables
4. Improving the flow of the argument

I hope these changes will address your concerns. Please let me know if you have any further suggestions.

Best regards,

[Your Name]
Je reviens, dit Yves. Il faut que tu le saches, je suis mort.

Il y a une semaine, il a du mal à avaler. Son ventre est gonflé et il a mal à la tête. Il va à l'hôpital, il est très malade. Les médecins ne savent pas ce qui l'arrive.

Il a des frissons, il se lève seul à l'aide de sa canne. Il va à la cuisine, il prend une gourde d'eau froide. Il boit lentement, il ne parvient pas à avaler. Il se repose un moment, il est trop faible pour aller plus loin.

Il reste assis, il rit de lui-même. Il se souvient de ses jeunes années, de ses aventures, de ses amis. Il pense à sa famille, à ses enfants, à sa femme. Il aimerait pouvoir leur parler, mais il est trop faible.

Il se repose encore un peu, il ferme les yeux. Il respire lentement, il sent le parfum de la vie. Il pense à sa mort, à son éternité. Il sourit, il aime ce moment, il est content de vivre.
I'm not sure...
It's not easy to make a difference.

The first step is to believe in yourself.

- Henry Wads

As a writer, you can make a difference.

In your own words, document the stories that need to be told.

- Keep writing, keep fighting, keep believing.

The world needs writers like you.

- Every written word counts.

Let's make a difference together.

- Together we can change the world.
